In the latest edition of 'Touchstone' Rev Mark Gibson reminds us that there is no such thing as 'away' when it comes to our rubbish. It is an illusion. It might be out of sight, out of mind but it still exists somewhere else.

What we send to landfill is still within the community of life, system and processes we are part of. We may have moved something toxic from our patch, but all we have done is dump it on someone else's patch. In the real world, the ecological world, we cannot externalise waste.

We need to reorient ourselves to Jesus' wisdom teaching. His 'Golden Rule' seems utterly relevant as we focus as a hāhi on Para Kore (Zero Waste) to begin our dec-ade on Climate Justice.

"In everything do to others as you would have them do to you," (Matt. 7:12) he urges us."
