Eco Corner

On Creation Sunday a prayer written by Syndal Baptist Church in Melbourne for the World Day of Prayer.

Lord, we praise you, for you spoke the world into being. We look at the world around us and see your fingerprints in every mountain range, every starry sky, every rolling river, every breaking wave, every blooming flower, every swaying tree. We see your creativity in the tiniest insects, through to the mightiest creatures that roam the earth. You are worthy of our awe and wonder, our extraordinary Creator.

Lord, we ask your forgiveness for the times and ways that we take your beautiful creation for granted. Forgive us for consciously or subconsciously perceiving this created world to be disconnected from the one who created it. Forgive us for the times and ways we have failed to care for this world you have entrusted to our care. Forgive us for the times and ways we have prioritised our comfort and convenience over the wellbeing of your world.

Lord, help us see this world as you do. Help us better see your goodness and creativity all around us. Help us understand what you wish us to change about our relationship to this world, and give us the clarity and courage to act. Help us display our worship of you in how we engage with, and care for, your creation. We pray for healing and restoration throughout the world you have made.

Our Lord, our Creator, we thank you and praise you. Amen.

Church Library

There are a significant number of books that have been borrowed from the library that have been out for some time. If you have one of these books could you return it please. If they have not been returned in the next month I will assume that they have been lost and delete them.

A new group of books are due to join the library in the next week or so. Enjoy your reading
